Mr. Bianca,

I am not going to waste my energy responding to the comments in your letter. As I told Mr. Cedillo, quite promptly after it was first requested, we are amenable to a reasonable mutual protective order. The order you have proposed is fine with the exception that I will need the right to retain a copy of all case-related documents at the end of the case. That retention will remain subject to the terms of the order. The first two "Whereas" paragraphs of the stipulation must be removed, it is otherwise acceptable as well. I will not be in a position to sign a print copy of the order until we meet at the deposition, however, due to my absence from my office. I am happy to sign at that time, subject to the above limitations and will consider myself bound by these obligations in the interim upon receipt of your consent to these modifications.
